Events
Health Talks: COVID-19
Friday, April 17, 2020 12:00-1:00 pm

Effective diagnostics are fundamental to identifying and managing the SARS-CoV2 virus and the COVID-19 pandemic. At the April 17 CHS Health Talks, Mara Aspinall and Dr. Joshua LaBaer will discuss local and national efforts to use and optimize diagnostic methods that can reduce COVID-19 risk and spread. Dr. Carl Yamashiro will moderate this session.

Another COVID-19 conversation happening this week:

APHA: COVID-19 Conversations Webinar Series
Crisis Standards of Care During COVID-19

Wednesday, April 15, 2020 at 5:00pm EDT; Register to Attend

The fourth COVID-19 Conversations webinar will discuss crisis standards of care during the COVID-19 pandemic, including an overview of and challenges for adapting crisis standards of care to rapidly evolving clinical care guidelines; practical considerations for state health departments and hospital systems; and ethical considerations and decision-making around standards of care.

The webinar will feature a panel of expert speakers, including:

- Larry Gostin, JD (Moderator) - Director, O’Neill Institute for National and Global Health and Law, Georgetown University

COVID-19 Resource website

In the coming weeks, we plan to establish a website of COVID-19 related resources for the general public. There will also be a way for you to share recommended resources through the website.

CHS College-wide meeting on COVID-19 initiatives

The CHS COVID-19 Initiatives team is planning a college-wide meeting to discuss COVID-19 initiatives including the 5 domains, introduce the leads for each domain, provide updates on current and future projects, and answer questions you may have. We hope to hold this meeting within the coming two weeks.

If you have immediate questions, please feel free to email us at CHSCovid@asu.edu.

CHS Employee Emergency fund

The members of the Faculty and Staff Vitality domain are working to establish a CHS Employee Emergency Fund. More information to come once the account is established.
